Okay Route 162 projects

The Pontoon Village Board approved Saturday morning a recommendation of the village zoning board that two tracts of land along the west side of Route 162 be zoned for use of a proposed business development.

The development is planned by Village Board President Floyd David Moss and his wife, Sheila, and a former village trustee, Carl Hackney, and his wife, Betty.

Action on the permit followed a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals in the Pontoon Beach Village Hall prior to the 8 a.m. meeting of the village board Saturday.

The village board meeting was recessed from the regular meeting date last Thursday night due to lack of a quorum.

There were no objections to the zoning at the village board meeting and all trustees present voted in favor of the zoning board recommendation. Dr. Dean Rochester and Loren Madison, trustees, were absent.

Moss and Hackney noted that there were no objections present at either of the two on site hearings held last week.

and said, "I quit," Neitporek said in the statement. Wiese's statement said he and Rosenberg were called by radio from 3rd Street and Cleveland Aves. to the tavern because of a report of a burglary in progress.

The two patrolmen stopped their squad car in front of the tavern at about the same time Sgt. Mitchell stopped his car behind the tavern. Mitchell reported seeing a man in a yellow shirt behind the bar, according to Wiese's statement.

He said he checked the front door and saw the cigarette machine face down on the floor. As he approached the urinal room door, two persons ran from the door.

"The subjects were told to 'Halt and don't do right there,' and Collins started throwing beer cans and glass bottles," Wiese's statement said.

He added that he chased the two and told them to halt again. Officer Rosenberg fired a warning shot but Collins "went right on and was shot," Wiese said. "Sgt. Mitchell stopped the other two," he added.

Mitchell's statement, also read to the jury, said he was at the rear of the tavern when he "heard a shot" and "saw shots fired at the front of the building."

He said he turned and saw a subject in a yellow shirt fleeing across the parking lot. "I fired one (shot) over his head and commanded him to halt. He stopped, and I yelled, 'I quit,'" Mitchell said.

He said that as other officers arrived, they were told to call an ambulance for Mr. Collins, and Mitchell took Neitporek to the police station.

Michael Collins arrived at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 2:50 a.m. and was pronounced dead three minutes later by Dr. H. B. Benington, resident physician, according to the police reports.

Madison County Deputy Coroner Werner, who conducted the inquest, read an autopsy report which showed the cause of death as death "memorized" due to a gunshot wound to the chest.

In the opinion of Dr. Werner, who conducted the autopsy, "Bald analysis tests showed no signs of alcohol, narcotics or other drugs in the body."

The autopsy report showed the bullet entered Mr. Collins' left chest, penetrated his upper left lung, penetrated the base of the heart, went through the great blood vessel at the front of the chest.

The verdict was returned after the jury deliberated 15 minutes. The verdict was "murder in the first degree."

Mr. Collins parents, who were present, expressed disapproval with the verdict and indicated they would contest the verdict.

Road crossings to Macclair Asphalt Co. of Collinsville and Midwest Blacktop Co. of East St. Louis to oil and rock all village streets were required for reference to the State Department of Transportation for approval.

Work on the streets will be done this summer, with paving and spreading of rock to begin as soon as the contracts are approved by the State Department of Transportation and returned to the village.

The trustees also adopted a subdivision control ordinance and a septic tank control ordinance, and enacted the village zoning ordinance as the Pontiac Beach land use plan.

Members of the board's executive committee, John Cole, Don Ross and Dr. Rostetter, were appointed as the land use committee.

Cole was named as the village representative to handle claims under the flood disaster program.

Also approved was a resolution "at the village cooperative with Nameoki Township in an environmental cleanup."

George Moore was named a member of the zoning board. A motion to appoint the zoning board secretary was defeated.

Venice tries for flood insurance qualification

Resolutions qualifying Venice for federal flood insurance were passed by the Venice City Council last week, in the wake of flood damages caused by a record rise in the Mississippi River last month which flooded several areas of the city.

The resolutions provide assurances of city controls over building, repairing and improving buildings in flood areas, and a second document adds special building codes for areas susceptible to flooding.

The actions were the first steps toward the city applying to qualifications for the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968. The act makes available flood insurance to residents of qualified areas who are unable to purchase the insurance from other sources.

The council accepted the resignations of William Spencer and Leo M. Deveney from the board of police commissioners and concurred in Mayor John E. Lee's appointment of Ernest Davenport and Phil Smith to fill the vacancies. A third vacancy on the board will be filled at the next meeting, Lee said.

Spencer and Deveney reportedly resigned because they received funds from other governmental bodies. The city's attorney has indicated conflicts of interest would be possible if they remained commissioners.

Spencer is employed by the Venice Park District and Deveney receives a pension from the city.

Lee appointed Bernard Anderson as a new building inspector and reappointed William E. Griggs as the other inspector. Anderson replaces Leo Davenport who may be appointed to a new position at the next meeting.

These were the only changes made in the lineup of city officials as Dr. Lee reappointed 22 others. More appointments are to be made at the next meeting, he said.

The council agreed to have specifications prepared for two trucks needed by the street department. Bids will be sought when specifications have been completed, it was announced.

Lee said he has met with Mayor Mike Sayk of Madison to try and reach an agreement for Venice to utilize Madison's tree chipper periodically to remove tree limbs and brush in the city. A Madison Street Department employee would be paid by Venice to operate the chipper. If an agreement can be reached, Lee said.

The aldermen voted to appropriate $10,000 in revenue sharing funds to demolish residential buildings for owners requesting the service. It will be provided on a "first-come, first-served basis," William "Mike" Ebersold, city clerk, explained.

William Woodmore and Benjamin Honorable, Venice Township auditors, requested the assistance of the aldermen in locating a suitable site for construction of a mini-bike trail by the township.

The council went on record supporting Senate Bill 1157 which would appropriate funds for state vocational schools, including the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

Ebersold asked that all aldermen write State Sen. Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville), asking "at he oppose Senate Bill 1161, which would combine all elections into one November election each election year."

Permission was given to Henry King, chief of the Brooklyn Police Department, to conduct a parade from Brooklyn through Venice June 23.

Complaints were heard about cars being parked close to the corner of Broadway and Market Street, blocking vision to drivers at the intersection. Several city officials volunteered to investigate means of eliminating the hazard.

A complaint also was heard about large holes in the ground in the area of New Salem Bar-rist Church which are presenting a danger to children. The street superintendent was instructed to fill the holes.

Dr. Lee reported registration for the Venice summer program for children and youths has been successful and said even more participants would be welcomed into the program. He said those interested in participating should contact city officials at City Hall.

The treasurer report showed general fund receipts of $112,458 during May and disbursements of $36,206. A bank balance of $121,464 in the fund was reported.

The council adjourned until a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at which proposed revenue-sharing budgets will be presented. The city has received more than $137,000 in revenue sharing since the federal program began. The budgets Monday night will appropriate the $61,987 received during the first two quarters of 1973.

Walker to seek funds for freeways

Governor Dan Walker said last week he plans to seek additional bond funding in the next and subsequent sessions of the General Assembly to proceed with the supplemental freeway system, barring unforeseen setbacks to the state's fiscal condition.

In the meantime, Governor Walker said, design work on the supplemental freeway system, including last month's highway building program will proceed.

Walker said: "On May 2, I announced my plans for supplemental freeways to be built with the balance of the current existing transportation bond issue funds authorized for highway construction outside Cook County."

"Some reactions assumed that this meant the end of the supplemental freeway system. Those reactions were not founded on fact."

"I have not killed or abandoned any portion of that system. The supplemental freeway system as originally announced is desirable for the state and should be built. But it includes 1,850 miles of highway and would cost $5 billion."

Rankin girl wins IPC essay contest, stock

Denise Rankin, a Venice Grade School student, is a winner in a power plant tour essay contest sponsored by Illinois Power Co.

She will receive two shares of IPC stock. She was among 18 in Illinois Power territory whose essays were chosen best from about 2,000 submitted from more than 7,000 students from 105 schools who toured IP power plants last school year.

The essay judged best from each class qualifies its author for a prize of either a study lamp or a dictionary. At year's end these winning essays are grouped by IP service areas and the best essay written by a boy and the best written by a girl are then selected for the grand prize of two shares of IP stock, which now has a current market value of about $32.

Denise is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Rankin, 511 Washington Ave., Venice.

Injunction suit filed against food market

An injunction suit which seeks $10,000 damages has been filed for Ann Kralley, 1218 Madison Ave., against Leo Avery, Stan Ins., operator of Schermer's Market in Madison, Madison County Circuit Court.

The complaint claims that the firm owns real estate on either side of the Kralley home and is used as parking lots without regard for the comfort, welfare or safety of Mrs. Kralley or her property.

The lots have been black-topped, and Mrs. Kralley claims storm water drains onto her property into the foundation and basement walls of her home and traffic has caused repeated damage to her fence.

According to the complaint, if corrective action is not taken, serious and irreparable damage will be caused. She asks the court to order the firm to prevent drainage on the land.

Venice Park Board adopts new budget of $79,783

A 1973-74 budget of $79,783, a decrease of $1,115 below last year's appropriations, has been approved by the Venice Park District Board.

The new budget sets up expenditures of $38,813 in the general fund, $38,820 in the recreational fund, $5,500 for municipal retirement, $250 for auditing and $1,400 for liability insurance for the aggregate of $79,783.

Last year's budget included $38,878 in the general fund, $4,500 for municipal retirement, and the same amounts for auditing and liability insurance.

Projected expenditures in the new budget's general fund account, compared with last year's figures in parenthesis, include administration, $8,619 ($7,010); legal, $2,360 (same); finance department, $3,899 (same); general park building repairs, $1,190 ($1,400); general park grounds, $19,493 ($20,993); and salaries for park police, $3,500 ($4,100).

The $38,820 appropriation for the recreational fund includes $12,500 for labor, compared to $13,500 labor costs budgeted a year ago.

Following publication of the appropriations ordinance in today's paper, the Venice Park Board is expected to adopt its new tax levy in its next regular meeting July 13.

SONNY MARTIN To Perform Here

Country music artist

plans Quad-City shows

Sonny Martin of St. Louis, country music singer and guitarist, is in Granite City to arrange a series of shows, the first of which will be presented Saturday at 9 p.m. at the Granite City Army Installation.

Martin said he expects to book from 25 to 30 separate appearances in the Quad-City area, some of which will be arranged as benefit shows.

Among the shows is one planned for children of the Shriners Hospital in St. Louis. Many musicians interested in performing in this show may contact Eddie Weldon Promotions, Box 910-M, Granite City, Martin said.

Martin, who made his singing debut on the Ozark Jubilee at Springfield, Mo., at the age of 8 and hitchhiked to Nashville, Tenn., at 14 to break into the country music field, also has recorded a number of selections.

He now manages his own road show known as the Sonny Martin Review, operating out of Nashville, Tenn. Dennis James will serve as master of ceremonies at the show at the Army Installation Saturday and the hospital show to be scheduled later, Martin said.

The new bill permitting motorists to make right turns at red signals, after stopping and yielding to any cross traffic or crossing pedestrians, also permits motorists on one-way streets—who have stopped and yielded to crossing traffic and pedestrians—to turn right on a red light onto a one-way street with traffic going from right to left.

Gov. Daniel Walker noted that the new law allows local and state authorities to make exceptions to the new turn-on-red signal policies at dangerous intersections.

The law, sponsored by Rep. W. Joseph Gibbs (R., Springfield), takes effect Jan. 1. Prohibitions at certain intersections would be effective when local or state authorities post signs forbidding the turns on red signals.

Gov. Walker said: "This change in traffic law makes sense. Allowing right turns on red lights will help relieve needless bottlenecks at many intersections and will speed the flow of traffic safely."

Illinois will now be the tenth state to permit right turns after stopping for a red light. "The practice has worked in the other states and I believe motorists in Illinois will welcome the change."

Between now and Jan. 1, when the law takes effect, local authorities and the state Department of Transportation will be determining the intersections where permitting such turns on red lights would be too dangerous.

Local authorities can prohibit turns on red signals by passing ordinances and posting signs at the affected intersections, Gov. Walker said.

The state Department of Transportation will designate and post signs at intersections where such turns are too dangerous for the turn-on-red policy.

City of Venice files condemnation suit

A condemnation suit has been filed by the City of Venice against Joe and William Ruman in Madison County Circuit Court seeking authority to demolish a two-story frame store residence building at 1100 Douglas St., Venice.

The complaint alleges that because of fire and neglect the building is unsafe and is in a serious state of disrepair, constituting a serious fire hazard and nuisance and endangering the life and property of neighbors.

The lodge request was the only item on the commission's agenda. Prior to voting, four new members were seated, Ed G. Boyer, Herman Schroeder, Mike Worthen and Ed Reinegal.

The cost of repairs would exceed 60% of the value of the building. The city asks that a lien be placed on the property to cover the cost of razing.

Outdoor meal marks Roundtable theme

An outdoor meal was served at the monthly Roundtable meeting of the Unwink District of the Cahokia Mound Counciling Union of "Cub Scout Chiefs."

Roundtable Commissioner Ron Luebben was in charge of the meeting and led the group in the "Philmont Grace."

Luebben welcomes the group and each person introduced himself to the others. Song leaders Mrs. Vee Thorne, son leader of Cub Pack 19 sponsored by the Washington School PTA, and Mrs. Darlene Smith, committee woman of Pack 49, sponsored by the N. A. M. O. K. School PTA, led the audience in singing.

Ray Snelson, district commissioner, and his wife, were introduced as special guests. Snelson thanked the units which were present in the Memorial Day parade sponsored by the DAV.

"Tin can stoves" were made by the group under the leadership of Mrs. Thorne who also demonstrated how to make fire starters to use with the stoves.

"Hot Dog Squeezers" were demonstrated by Mrs. Smith who presented each person present with one to roast marshmallows.

The Webelos theme "Outdoorsman" was explained by Luebben who told how to make an "outdoor code card."

A representative from each pack told of their plans for summertime activities. For a pack to qualify for the Summer Fun Award they must hold three activities during the summer with 50% of the pack in attendance.

The award consisted of a certificate and a ribbon for each den in the pack that had 50% of the den participating.

Mark Velling, district executive, reminded everyone to get their Cub Scout Day Camp registrations in to the Council Service Center as soon as possible. Camp will be held July 10-13.

Closing songs were led by Mrs. Thorne, followed by the Cub Scout Prayer. Due to the Roundtable next month, the next Roundtable will be held Aug. 14 at the N. A. M. O. K. Recreation Center.

Knights of Pythias zoning plea denied

A request by the Knights of Pythias for rezoning at 2326 Iowa St. for a lodge hall, was denied unanimously by the Granite City Plan Commission Thursday.

The proposal, with the commission's recommendation to deny, now will be presented to the Granite City Council for final action.

Dorothy Tadder, owner of the building, had requested R-3 zoning rather than the present R-3 (two-family). Marvin Barnes, an attorney for the Knights of Pythias, represented the organization at the Plan Commission's meeting.

Barnes said a small sign would be erected. He said lodge members would park their autos at the U. S. Post Office nearby.

The commission denied the application on the basis that written permission to the lodge to use the parking lot and the street would create congestion.

Speaking in opposition to the plan was Alderman Roy Post of the Third Ward who said he and Clyde Boyd, the Ward's other alderman, had received several calls from neighbors objecting to the lodge locating there. "A club like this should be located elsewhere," he said.

Dave Morgan, new chairman of the commission, said an objection had been received from another neighbor who shares a driveway with the building in question.

The lodge request was the only item on the commission's agenda. Prior to voting, four new members were seated, Ed G. Boyer, Herman Schroeder, Mike Worthen and Ed Reinegal.

Auto accident leads to interest in dentistry

A 27-year-old Army veteran, who will be a member of the 1973 first class of the School of Dental Medicine at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, says he is interested in dentistry because of an automobile accident in which he was involved about 10 years ago.

Robert James Hurd of Springfield was a senior in high school at West Frankfort when he lost several teeth in an automobile mishap.

"My interest in the dentist's procedures and formation of my new teeth led me to choose a career in dental technology, which in turn, led to becoming a dental school student," Hurd said.

Hurd, who was discharged from the U. S. Army in 1968, has been employed as a dental technician at Long Dental Studio in Springfield for the past year.

"The three-year curriculum without a summer break is educationally sound in the field of dentistry," according to Dr. Frank Sobkowski, dental school dean. "We think it's desirable to have a professional curriculum operating on a continuous basis. That way, skills that are learned don't have to be relearned. And of course a three-year program is most economical for everyone, especially students and the taxpayers of the state."

Hurd is one of 40 students who will begin their dental school studies in September. He is married to the former Kendra Crowell of West Frankfort, and they are the parents of a two-year-old daughter, Tracy Lynn.

$200,000 suit filed over fatal accident

A suit for $200,000 has been filed for Leroy J. Stark, E. O. Stark and Wesley L. Bauer, administrators of the estate of the late Dorothy Dean Bauer, against R. M. Bowler Contract Hauling Co. and Alms V. Nance.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Bauer, mother of two children, was a passenger in an auto which collided with an auto driven by Alms Nance last Feb. 24 on Route 151 at Rock Road and suffered fatal injuries.

The complaint alleges the Bowler firm was negligent as one of its tractor trailer trucks, owned by William Taylor, had stopped at the left hand turning lane and the driver signaled the Nance auto into the intersection.

Students gone but work goes on at SIUE campus

Most students have gone home for a vacation, but operations are continuing at a busy pace between academic quarters at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. For many employees, it is the busiest time of the year. The university has more than 500 faculty members and about 800 civil service employees who are using the week-long break either to complete the administrative work required for the spring quarter or to prepare for the return of students enrolled for the summer quarter. A major activity is the completion and distribution of grade reports.

Physical plant workers are continuing their efforts to keep equipment and facilities in first-class condition at all times. Generally, they find it more convenient to work on major rejuvenation jobs while most of the students are away. The campus is not completely void of students this week because some of the summer workshops began immediately following the completion of the spring quarter.

A casual visitor to the SIUE campus would find the tempo about the same as any other week of the year—the only difference is the absence of about 10,000 students.

Open burning proposed for disaster areas

By JOAN MURARO
Copy News Service

Springfield — By the time the debris is dry in low-lying flood areas in Illinois, it may be possible to burn it without offending the EPA.

Hearings have been set for June 26 in Quincy to consider proposed changes in the open burning regulations in the state.

As proposed to the Pollution Control Board by the Environmental Protection Agency, the rules would be amended to permit open burning of landscape waste, agricultural debris and "clean" wood refuse from buildings in areas which have been struck by a disaster.

Ronald T. O'Connor of the EPA said that usually the record of public hearings is left open for some 10 days after the hearings end to permit interested parties unable to attend the public hearings to submit written testimony.

Once the record is closed, another week is usually required to get the transcript to members for consideration, he said. With no complications or delays, the amendments could presumably be approved and become official at the July 19 or even July 22 meeting of the PCB.

As proposed, the amendments would require that the area involved would have to be declared a disaster area.

in accordance with the U. S. Disaster Relief Act.

Only "clean" wood building debris would be permitted, workshops began immediately following the completion of the spring quarter.

Permits would still be required and would have to show the nature and estimated amounts of the materials to be burned, as well as the way in which the material resulted from the disaster, where and when the open burning would take place, and why alternative methods of disposal weren't being used.

If adopted, the amendments would apply only to items which actually resulted from flood, tornado, wind storm or other disaster, O'Connor said.

Property owners would be allowed to burn the debris from damaged trees or ruined buildings but would not be allowed to clean out the attic and throw that debris on the fire, he said, unless the attic itself had been under water, or blown several hundred feet from the house, in which case the damage would be disaster-related.

In a covering letter to the PCB, acting Director John M. Marco of the EPA noted that "Cleanup after such disasters is a monumental task. The property losses at such can be enormous, and when cleanup costs are added, the financial burdens can be truly staggering."

"Additionally, the piles of debris awaiting disposal are unsightly, an unattractive nuisance and could provide harborage for vermin."

Marco added that it was the EPA's expectation that municipalities, townships and other political subdivisions would be permitted to apply for permits for opening burning in disaster areas on behalf of local residents.

Walker asks Press-Record readers to ask him about state government

Gov. Dan Walker has invited readers of this newspaper to ask him questions concerning state government.

All questions will be answered by letter and those with the widest interest will appear in a weekly column entitled ASK THE GOVERNOR.

"Every citizen of Illinois who has a question about state government deserves an answer,"

Gov. Walker said. He continued: "Many Illinoisans have taken advantage of the accountability sessions I have been holding throughout the state. But many more, who for various reasons have been unable to attend the sessions, also have questions."

The governor said he believes the questions he receives will help him do a better job as governor.

Questions should be addressed to: ASK THE GOVERNOR, Illinois Information Service, Room 105, State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

"Each letter to the governor must be signed and an address provided."

THE ASK THE GOVERNOR column will appear in the Press-Record.

Library district may receive $370,262 aid

"The Lewis and Clark Library District would be allocated $370,262 if Senate Bill 614 gets through the House and is signed by Governor Walker," according to Sen. Sam Vadalabene.

"Under the formula set by the bill just passed by the Senate, the local district's share of the state grant to library systems would be increased by $108,225.00 over last year's allocations."

"There's no question that our libraries can make valuable use of these increased funds," Vadalabene said. "That's why I was pleased when Secretary of State Howlett asked me to sponsor this legislation. Now the Senate has done its part to bring further improvements to our state library system."

"Our libraries are our central resource for improving literacy and providing information. All our citizens, whether they are regular library users or not, stand to benefit when these institutions are improved. Our young people especially will gain, since the library is an important part of any educational endeavor."

Boating safety cited by Conservation Dept.

Copy News Service

Springfield—A life preserver can't preserve your life when it's stowed out of sight and unused, but far too many Illinois boaters still refuse to believe it.

Ken Gruenewald, in the boat section of the state Department of Conservation, said there were 37 deaths resulting from boating accidents in the state in 1972, and in 11 of those cases, there were no life saving devices aboard.

Overall, however, Gruenewald said the state has a good safety record where boating is concerned. In 1960, when the Illinois boat registration and safety act became effective, there were 101,000 boats registered, and all fatalities from boating accidents.

Last year the state registered nearly twice as many boats, he said, but had only about half the number of fatalities of a decade ago—more than 200,000 registrations and 37 deaths. The decline in numbers of deaths, Gruenewald said, reflects the success of the state's various volunteer safety programs.

grams, and particularly of the department's young boatmen's safety course which this year will reach 50,000 youths in the state.

Since Jan. 1, 1968, any boat manufactured or offered for sale in Illinois must bear a tag showing the number of pounds it can safely carry, as well as the estimated number of passengers, and the proper motor size.

"When people pay attention to this," Gruenewald said, "they're in good shape but where they violate it, they still get in trouble."

The same thing, he said, applies to life-saving devices. State law requires that they be aboard for each person in the boat, but under the same court decision which held that a motorcyclist cannot be compelled to wear a helmet for his own safety, the state has no authority to insist that boaters wear life savers.

Despite the many attempts to further boating safety, Gruenewald said, overloading boats continues to be a major concern. He added that capsizing is no longer the major boating accident. Last year, he said, there were 94 reported boating accidents, 18 of which involved collisions with fixed objects and 18 boats capsized. In 10 of the accidents, people fell overboard, he said.

The Conservation Department director, Anthony Dean, has asked Gov. Daniel Walker to designate the week of July 1 as Boating Week in Illinois. Gruenewald said, paying tribute to the many volunteers who advance boating safety in the state.

Illinois, which has won every major national award for boat safety, has been approached by more than 30 other states for information about setting up programs like the Illinois Young Boatman's safety course, he said.

Designed primarily for the junior high and high school level, the course is now taught throughout the state in many junior colleges and some four-year colleges as well, and at least one requires the course for all physical education majors.

Begun two years ago, the course has been taught by 12,000 youngsters the first year, reaches 50,000 this year and is now being taught at a very low cost at 100,000 right now except for manpower and logistics," Gruenewald said.

While boating safety courses are of great value in avoiding accidents and saving lives, he added, most accidents could be avoided if boaters would merely use courtesy and common sense.

'Mad Canadian' to jump auto over two buses at speedway

Ken "the Mad Canadian" Carter, who holds the world's record for jumping a car over two end-to-end buses, will attempt to repeat the feat during the Friday night at the Tri-City Speedway.

Carter holds the record for a jump of 102 feet, 11 inches, set June 2. He plans a jump of 110 feet in a show with Evil Knievel at the Houston Astro-dome in January.

He has been jumping stock autos over two buses since 1971, either landing on a ramp or ending in a crash into three parked cars. He calls the feat the "auto leap of death."

The only preparations he makes to the car is to remove the glass and to add a 200 pound mannequin to offset his weight from tipping the car to the left. He says the mannequin was necessary, "because I couldn't find anyone who wanted to ride with me."

His only safety precautions are to wear a safety helmet and to buckle the seat belts in the car. "I'm trying to show the public how important seat belts are and why they must be used," he says.

He has been a stunt driver

Press-Record Sports

Page 6 Mon., June 18, 1973

since 1955 and has had his own show since 1962. In his career he has suffered a broken shoulder blade, a broken leg and a cracked nose as his car has missed the return ramp or has landed short of the ramp on top of one of the buses.

He brings with him about $40,000 worth of equipment, including the buses (his fifth and sixth cars), the mannequin, damaged beyond repair during unsuccessful jumps, and the ramps.

The take-off ramp is 28 feet long, rises from the ground to a height of 28 feet and weighs 22 tons. The landing ramp when he uses it instead of crashing into cars on the right side of the buses, is only 7' 10", 46 feet long and weighs 10,000 pounds.

The three-axle trailer landing ramp was expertly designed because a wooden ramp collapsed, taking the life of an other auto jumper driver, Lucky Teeters in 1942.

The buses are 50-foot long, 60-passenger vehicles.

He has to leave the take-off ramp at exactly 67 miles-per-hour to make a successful jump, Carter claims. One mile-per-hour slower and he claims he will hit the far bus, and one mile-per-hour faster and, he says he will overshoot the landing ramp.

Explaining why he does the stunts, Carter explains simply, "I gross about $50,000 to $90,000 a year." He has to travel about 50,000 miles each year for enough bookings to continue his income.

Carter is planning to enter motion pictures in a Four-Star production called "Thrill Seale," which is to be made into a television series. Chuck Connors is to narrate the series. The Tri-City Speedway also features late-model stock car racing on the Friday night program.

Time-trials will start at 7:30 p.m. with racing at 8:30 p.m.

Prior tops race field for 2nd Tri-City win

Johnny Prior, Centuria, powered his 1966 Chevrolet to victory at Tri-City Speedway Friday night to become the first driver in the late model stock car division to post two feature race wins in the same dirt oval.

Prior was the sixth fastest qualifier in time-trials with a 27.98-second lap. The fastest qualifying time of 27.21 was set by Ben Gittimer of St. Charles, Mo.

W. B. Spalding of Pontoon Beach, the defending track champion, was fifth fastest with a lap time of 27.67.

Prior led the six-lap handicap event from start to finish, defeating Gittimer and Spalding, who finished second and third respectively.

He was denied victory in the heat race as the event was won by Clyde Lindemann of Cottleville, Mo., Louie Jansen of Bethany, and Lou Thierly of Bunker Hill.

Prior posted his second consecutive feature win after getting the lead on the third lap of the 30-lap event.

Thierly, 44, is making a comeback to racing after a three-year retirement from the super-modified tri-city class. He had charged into the lead on the first lap with Kenny Schrader, Valley Park, Mo., and Prior running a close second and third behind him.

Prior charged past Schrader and Thierly on the fourth lap after Thierly's race car drifted out of the groove and into the third turn guard rail.

The only time Prior was ever challenged was on the ninth lap when Clyde Lindemann moved into the second spot. Lindemann was no match for the pace-setting Prior and had to settle for a second place finish, with third, fourth and fifth spots at the checkered flag going to Gittimer, Schrader and Spalding.

Dennis Rolletti, St. Charles, Mo., posted the other double victory, capturing both the hilly car division heat race and the feature event.

Racing will continue Friday night with time-trials at 7:30 p.m. and racing at 8 p.m.

Mercer wins 4-1 tilt, Boosters downed 7-1

Mercer downed the Highland-Pierion nine in Wilson Park Sunday 4-1 while the St. Mary's Boosters on the road at Collinsville won the game in the Inter-City baseball action.

"Vic Reznack went all the way for us and had a real good pitching job," said Coach Mercer, manager, said. "He allowed 11 hits, but when Highland-Pierion went to base Reznack shut the door on them."

Mercer runs came in the second, fourth, sixth and eighth innings.

Dave Evans got a free ride to first in the second, was sent to third on a single by Dave Huddleston and went home for the first. Mercer's run on Bill Campbell's single.

Larry Corey hit the longest ball of the game when he tied for Mercer in the seventh inning and came home on a sacrifice fly to Steve Schard.

Mercer now is 3-2 and will travel Thursday to the Highland-Pierion game for an 8 p.m. game against Troy under the lights.

Young Jay Greer, 17-year-old shortstop for St. Mary's, slammed a 380-foot solo home run in the fourth inning for his team in the game.

John Piechocinski strayed on the mound and was relieved by Kevin Forner in the second inning due to a sore arm.

"Jim Boone, Molitor's pitcher, was real tough. He had a fast ball that was really hard to hit," Jim Greer, Booster manager, related. Boone struck out five and pitched six innings.

"We had a chance to score in the fifth and sixth innings but one could come up with a hit at the right time," Greer lamented.

St. Mary's is now 1-5 with a make up game still to be scheduled. The Boosters have an open date Sunday.

In other Inter-City action Sunday Troy beat Roxana 7-4 and Glen Carbon escaped by a 12-11.

League standings are Red Division, Roxana 5-2, Troy 5-2, Molitor 4-3, Mercer 3-2, and Highland-Pierion 2-4; Blue Division, Van's 6-1, Plaza 2-4, St. Mary's 1-5 and Glen Carbon 1-6.

Miss Susan Deniere Miller and Terrence Shaw Wylie were united in marriage at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at Trinity United Methodist Church, East 25th and Henry streets.

A double ring candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ellis H. Dugger, pastor, before an altar decorated with bouquets of white summer flowers.

Mrs. William Harris, organist, accompanied Mrs. Margaret MacZura, who sang "We've Only Just Begun" and "All Ways."

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wylie, 2526 E. 25th St. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Peggy Miller, 2401 Washington Ave., and Doyle Miller, 2013 Richmond Ave.

The attendants and flower girl were dressed in orchid nylon gowns designed in Empire style. Each carried a bouquet of spring flowers bouquet and wore a cap style headpiece in a shade to match her attire.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Miller selected a white nylon bride gown, featuring a square neckline, cap sleeves and a very full skirt that extended into a cathedral-length train.

A headpiece created in matching fabric held in place her veil of bridal illusion and she held a bouquet of fresh spring blossoms.

Mrs. Miller, mother of the bride, chose a blue and white street-length frock and the groom's mother, Mrs. Wylie, appeared in a dress of orchid crepe and lace. Gardenia corsages were worn by both mothers.

1973 Operation Clean Lake set for mid-July

Now that Mother Nature has completed its rampage of the Alton Lake as a part of the spring of '73 record breaking flood, boat owners from the metropolitan area are being urged to participate in the seventh annual Operation Clean Lake scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. July 14. The rain date is Saturday, July 21 same hours.

The operation is sponsored by Pride Inc., an organization concerned with the beautification of Alton Lake and nearby communities. Tom Herzog and Don McKinney of Alton are co-chairmen of the event.

In the past years many tons of litter have been collected from the islands in Alton Lake, but this year, due to the recent floods, it is anticipated a little bit of everything will be needed to be cleaned up.

The headquarters will be at the Alton Motorboat Club located on Piasa Creek about seven miles above Alton on the McAdams Highway, and a quarter-mile off the River Road on Lockhaven Road.

All supplies will be available at the headquarters at the Alton Motorboat Club.

Boat owners are invited to volunteer their craft to transport Boy and Girl Scouts to the assigned clean-up areas. If a boat owner wishes to pick up Scouts or supplies, arrangements should be made ahead of time by contacting the Pride office at 122 E. Broadway, Alton, 465-3225.

Educators, congressmen meet on funds

State School Supt. Michael J. Bakalis and a delegation of Illinois educators met with Illinois congressmen Thursday to urge a quick resolution of entangled federal funding for education.

At a breakfast in Washington for the Illinois congressional delegation hosted by Bakalis and 10 Illinois education organizations, the state school chief said unless the U. S. Office of Education (USOE), the Congress and the President come to terms soon on educational funding, local school districts cannot realistically plan programs for the coming year.

He said USOE's actions ignoring congressional intent in school funding cost Illinois $38 to $40 million in federal aid last year.

"Just this past weekend," Bakalis said, "USOE finally relented on its revenue sharing (Better Schools Act) or nothing for education policy. The $2.8 billion slated for the Better Schools Act will now be distributed among current programs. But, it must be remembered that funding for Better Schools assumed elimination of some existing programs."

"The uncertainty as to which programs will be funded, at what levels, and for how long are the questions uppermost in the minds of Illinois educators."

Bakalis presented congressmen summaries of testimony from 10 public hearings on federal aid to education held earlier this year. More than 4,000 persons participated in those sessions.

Among the concerns raised was the problem of "late funding," Bakalis said. Delayed federal assistance disrupts local planning and stalls implementation of local programs, he said. He added that the suggestion to fund programs for more than one year at a time was very popular at the local level.

Bakalis noted that Illinois ranks 43rd in per pupil formula grant federal aid. The formula grants supposedly help urban states because the grants are based on population and disadvantaged students' needs. But only one urban state is in the top 30 states receiving such aid, he said.

Bakalis called on the congressmen to find out why urban states are being short-changed and what factors are being used in formula determinations. He said:

"If Illinois merely received its fair share of formula grants, that would go a long way toward relieving local financial stress and pressure for ever increasing federal expenditures."

The threatened cutback of federal funds for adult education could cost Illinois $5.6 million during the next fiscal year, according to Bakalis. The loss of those funds would affect more than 100 Illinois programs which employ 1,760 professional personnel, including teachers, administrators and counselors, he said.

"Most importantly," according to Bakalis, "adult education is a means of breaking the welfare-poverty cycle, and we have tangible proof of this in Illinois."

"In 1972, some 1,250 adult education students were placed in jobs, saving more than $2.8 million in Illinois welfare payments. The saving in both human terms and tax dollars speaks for the continuance of adult education."

Bakalis asked the congressmen to push for continued federal aid to education and pledged the resources of his office to assist them.

Illinois groups and the names of their representatives at the Washington meeting were: Administrators of Special Education (Lynn Wiley), Adult Education Association (Duane Bankin), Association of School Boards (Hal Seamon), Association of School Business Officials (June Quint), Association of School Librarians (Maxine Stevenson), Audiovisual Association Inc. (Gene Scholes), School Public Relations Association (Gerald Glaub), Congress of Parents and Teachers (Ruth Grove), Education Association (Joseph Pasteris) and Federation of Teachers (Tom Holland).

NAACP plans special meeting on busing

The Madison Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called a special meeting for 7 p.m. tomorrow at Friendship Baptist Church, 301 Mercedia Ave., Venice, to discuss the effects of court-ordered busing in the Madison schools. Also to be discussed are revenue sharing proposals and summer recreation programs. The meeting is open to the public, according to Harvey Riley of Venice, president of the group.

Mell-Walsh wedding at St. Margaret Mary

The marriage of Miss Susan Lynette Walsh and John Allen Mell was solemnized in an early evening ceremony on Friday night at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church.

Officiating at the double ring service at 7 o'clock was the Rev. Edward Groesch.

Mrs. Margaret MacDurga sang "The Sweetheart Tree," "For All We Know," "Sunrise, Sunset," "One Hand, One Heart," "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Margaret Crawshaw.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Annette W. Walsh, 3016 Forest Ave., and the late Robert L. Walsh. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Mell, reside at 9110 Bunkum Road, Fairview Heights.

Robert L. Walsh Jr., escorted his sister down the white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. She wore a full-length gown of white taffeta and peau de sole with a long removable train.

The fitted bodice featured a high neckline traced with lace motifs and seed pearls. The trim was repeated on the bodice and slightly gathered skirt. Her long full sleeves ended in fitted cuffs and a powder blue ribbon encircled the waistline.

A lace headpiece held in place her elbow-length bouffant veil and she carried a bouquet of carnations and lily of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Kathleen Soechtig and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Bruce Reese. Miss Barbara Mell and Miss Elizabeth Walsh, sisters of the bride and groom, served as junior bridesmaids.

They chose identical dresses designed with white bodices trimmed with embroidered lace. Lace formed the fitted cuffs of the long sheer sleeves and their formal-length skirts were in aqua chiffon over taffeta.

Fox again heads Red Cross chapter

David V. Fox, vice-president of First Granite City National Bank, was re-elected chairman of the Tri-City Chapter, American Red Cross, at the chapter's annual dinner meeting last week.

About 60 volunteers and local residents attended the event at Tempel's Smorgasbord and heard an address by Pete Nasir, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund.

Nasir spoke on his experience as a Red Cross official and more recently as a United Fund official, raising funds for the work of the Red Cross and all other programs supported by the Red Cross.

Elected to the meeting to serve with Fox as Red Cross officials were: Frank McGinnis, vice-chairman; Mrs. Maxine Dunham, secretary; and John R. Bassett, treasurer.

New board of directors members selected were the Rev. Paul Surbey, Edward F. Reiske, Mrs. Kay McCrone, Mrs. Shirley Blasingame and C. Wayne Banks.

Fox pledged that in his second year as chairman, he will strive for more efficient functioning of each committee and each worker.

He called attention to the accomplishments of the first aid committee, the blood program, and to the more than 100 Red Cross volunteers who assisted during flooding on Chouteau Island this spring.

He said a full accounting of funds spent during the flood was not available but the amount more than $2,000 was spent by the chapter on food for flood workers and $6,000 was spent on emergency food orders, clothing, linens, cleaning sup-

Chouteau Town Board approves $107,457 budget

A revision of four budget items in the town fund added a total of $2,839 to the proposed Chouteau Township budget at a public hearing and town board meeting last week.

The board also approved the addition of $50,000 as a budget for federal revenue sharing funds. The budget specifies the funds shall be used for acquiring land and building a new town building.

In a public hearing that preceded a special meeting of the town board for approval of the budget, an increase of $80 was voted in the item for town hall expense, originally $100, and the budget item for office equipment was increased from $300 to $500.

The hearing also approved an increase from $6,000 to $7,500 for municipal retirement, and the addition of $1,000 for auditing purposes, an item not previously in the budget. The board also increased the appropriation for contingencies from $400 to $500.

As a result of the town board approved a finalized budget of $107,457 for town purposes and $45,020 for general assistance, a total of $152,477. The revenue sharing budget of $50,000 was approved as a separate appropriation.

The new budget is up $7,400 over last year's budget of $99,977 which included $54,957 in the town fund and $45,020 in the general assistance fund.

Utilities agree to serve levee district

A circuit court ruling at Belleville has dissolved a temporary injunction to prevent four utility firms from discontinuing service to the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, but the district will not be without utility services.

The levee district had obtained the injunction to prevent the utilities from cutting off services because of nonpayment of bills, but Circuit Judge Richard Carter granted a motion for dismissal in Belleville yesterday.

Attorneys for the levee district and the utilities said an agreement had been reached under which service will be continued to the district facilities until financial problems created by pending litigation are cleared up.

The four utilities include the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Illinois Power Co., Union Electric and the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co.

Tricentennial voyageurs enroute, here on July 4

Exactly 300 years ago on June 19 a band of seven men entered the land of Illinois and gave the white man his first glimpse of the rich fertile soil that now produces much of the nation's crops.

In 1673 Joliet and Marquette and five companions explored the Mississippi and Illinois rivers to expand the French frontier and to look for a trade route to the west coast. In 1973 seven men are re-enacting that historic voyage to make the people of today realize the importance of their history.

The four-month voyage will cover about 3,000 miles of river and will take the men through seven states. The voyageurs left St. Ignace, Mich., on May 17 and for the past month have been traveling down the shores of Lake Michigan and across Wisconsin.

On June 19 the men, all Illinois residents, will enter the boundary of Illinois and will travel down the Mississippi River until July 30 when they will leave the state's boundary at Kaskaskia Island, Chester, Ill.

Celebrations and festivities will greet the voyageurs at many communities along the route and a special nine-state festival has been timed for their arrival in St. Louis on July 4.

The St. Louis festival will be held at the Gateway Arch and will run July 4-12. Illinois Day, Sunday, July 8, will feature drum and bugle corps, square dancers, Indian dancers, French singers and craft demonstrations.

The activities at the arch are sponsored by the Illinois Division of Tourism, Department of Business and Economic Development, in cooperation with the Illinois Tricentennial Commission. The Division of Tourism is also aiding local communities with their tricentennial plans.

The seven men will be joined along the route by a 13-year-old boy who will portray the Indian boy given to the voyageurs by an Indian chief. Each of the crew members will assume the role of one of the original explorers and will be costumed in 1673 era clothing.

Their preparation has included not only an exercise and conditioning program, but also learning to converse in French and sing the rhythmic paddling songs of the French voyageurs.

The entire journey has been carefully planned and prepared to adhere as closely as possible to historical accuracy.

The voyageurs will return to Illinois water on Aug. 19 on the return trip to Green Bay, Wis. On that date they will enter the Illinois River, will travel across the state to Lake Michigan, and will leave the Illinois boundary on Sept. 8.

Illinois stops along the Mississippi River will include Savannah, Port Byron, Rock Island, Moline, Nauvoo, Hamilton, Warsaw, Quincy, Alton, Lewis & Clark State Park, Ft. de Chartres at Prairie du Ro-

The SCHERMER BULLETIN...

Last week's sugar and tea sale was really something. It just shows that customers recognize a value. In case you didn't shop in our store last week we offered a 74 cent bag of sugar and a $1.29 jar of Lipton Tea for 80 cents; ie, 79 cents for the tea and 1 cent for the sugar. It really worked out fine. Our new customers tell us how much they are saving since they switched to Schermers; so why don't you?

You know we pride ourselves on customer service, but last Thursday I think we outdid ourselves. An elderly gentleman customer came back into the store in a panic saying, "I've just locked my keys in my car." Well, we have people working in our store with many talents, but you should have seen our produce clerk Joe Garcia go to work with a coat hanger. He had the man's car opened in about 30 seconds. We've started cars with dead batteries, changed flat tires, but this is a first. Nice going, Joe.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS HATCHER, whose wedding took place at Trinity United Methodist Church with the Rev. Roy Baugh officiating. She is the former Miss Christy Ashcraft, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ashcraft, 2306 Barn Ave.

Miss Christy Ashcraft marries Dennis Hatcher

Trinity United Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding on June 9 of Miss Christy J. Ashcraft, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ashcraft, 2306 Barn Ave. and Dennis R. Hatcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hatcher, 2979 Iowa St.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 10:30 in the morning by the Rev. Roy Baugh before an altar banked with arrangements of fresh white summer flowers and greenery.

Miss Debbie Bennett, organist, accompanied the soloists, Margie Settlemire and Paul Mabrey.

For her wedding, the former Miss Ashcraft chose a white eyelet lace gown designed in a Victorian style, featuring full sleeves accented with wide buttoned cuffs. A deep ruffled flounce encircled the hemline.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, white pom poms and baby breath.

Serving as maid of honor was a sister of the bride, Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, Mrs. Darlene Kahn, a sister of the groom, and Miss Marilyn Bens were bridesmaids and Miss Angela Ashcraft, another sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid.

Each attendant wore a gown made in different color gingham. Their dresses were fashioned with high necklines and long puffed sleeves and complemented with white eyelet pinafores.

The honor maid was in yellow gingham and the bridesmaids' gowns were in blue and mint green.

Their bouquets were arrangements of mixed summer flowers in shades to match their gowns.

The junior bridesmaid and the flower girl, Stephanie Roberts, a cousin of the bride, wore gingham pinafores with white ruffled blouses in pink and lavender, respectively.

Ron Hatcher, a brother of the groom, served as best man. Don Martin, Bob and Paul Ashcraft, both brothers of the bride, were groomsmen.

Seating the guests were Mike Lett and Jerry and Roger Hoffmann. Serving as ringbearer was Jeff Robett, a cousin of the bride.

Associate pastor assumes duties

The Rev. Carl F. Eschenbrenner, who was ordained in the Christian ministry June 10, assumed his duties as the new associate minister of St. John United Church of Christ, 2001 Nameoki Road, Friday.

He joins the staff at the church in a shared ministry with the Rev. Dr. Paul R. Surbey, pastor, with special emphasis placed in the areas of youth activities, Christian education and evangelism.

A native of St. Louis, the Rev. Eschenbrenner received his secondary education in West Hartford, Conn. He studied at Elmhurst College in Elmhurst, Ill. where he received a B.A. degree in 1968. On May 25 of this year, he earned his master of Divinity degree from the Theological Seminary in Webster Groves, Mo.

As a young man, in addition to his church activities, the new minister was active in the International Order of DeMolay. He is now a member of the Masonic Order.

The Rev. Eschenbrenner is an avid baseball fan and enjoys golf and fishing, as well as many other sports. He will reside in Granite City.

Former GC residents wed in dual ceremony

The double wedding of two sons of former Granite City residents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Veizer, now living at 2054 Green Valley Drive, Toledo, Ohio, took place June 8.

Performing the double ring service at St. John Catholic Church in Toledo was the Rev. John Lucas.

A scripture reading from the Book of Genesis was given by Joseph Magyar of Granite City, an uncle of the bridegrooms.

Miss Natalie Guerrero, a daughter of Mrs. Paulita Cantu of Laredo, Tex., and Gonzalo Guerrero, became the bride of Terrence Veizer.

Miss Janet MacLean, a daughter of Mrs. J. R. Handing of Fayetteville, Ark., and Torquil MacLean of Maunee, Ohio, was married to Craig Veizer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Point Place Veteran's of Foreign Wars Hall.

Serving as best man to Terrence Veizer was his twin brother, Timothy Veizer. Rory Magyar of Granite City was best man for his cousin, Craig Veizer.

Joel Veizer, another brother of the grooms, was the ringbearer and Ronald Trapanier of Toledo seated the guests.

The attendants to both brides were gownned in aqua frocks. Mrs. Cantu chose for her daughter's wedding a yellow polyester gown. Mrs. Handing selected a blue and white dress and Mrs. Veizer appeared in a full-length frock of pink lace.

Guests from this area who attended the wedding were Rory Magyar, his mother, Mrs. Ann Magyar, and Joseph Magyar, all of Granite City; and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vogel, an uncle and aunt of the grooms, former local residents now residing in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Veizer will reside at 3551 E. Marquette Blvd., Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Veizer will make their home in Fayetteville, Ark.

Overwhelming evidence that government should immediately authorize construction of secondary treatment plant here

State and federal officials considering the proposed Granite City secondary sewage treatment plant have an opportunity to serve the cause of justice by granting prompt approval. It is vital that the plant and its financing receive a "green light" for the 1972-73 fiscal year ending June 30. The municipality has tried hard to meet all requirements, and the delay has primarily stemmed from frequent changes in the ground rules outlined by various authorities. This is not the fault of the officials currently considering the city's application, but it is clearly one of the pertinent factors that could help shape their decision. Primary treatment already is being carried out, and it is the wish of the nation, region, state and community that this intensity be upgraded to secondary treatment in order to receive cleaner water in the Mississippi River. The city is overdue in complying but, as noted, has been halted by the same higher governmental levels urging it to hurry up. Many compelling reasons can be cited for immediate favorable action in Chicago or Washington. A delay into the next fiscal year would jeopardize priority rankings and also would force release of present bidders. Due to inflation, any rebidding could be expected to add perhaps a million or two million dollars to the already substantial cost projection.

Buffalo Rock Park has lively history

Editor's Note: This is one of a series on Illinois' state parks.

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

OTTAWA — Buffalo Rock State Park in LaSalle County is a vast pocket state park with big attraction capabilities. Only 43 acres, the site in 1971 drew a little more than 100,000 visitors.

Great scenic beauty is the draw at Buffalo Rock, Illinois River, and now stands on the river's north bank, about three miles west of Ottawa. What lacks in acreage the park makes up in history. Part of that history is its near destruction by business interests, and its preservation by another businessman who believed in protecting natural resources long before such a position became popular.

Illinois Indians lived in the area when the first known white explorers, Louis Joliet and Pere Jacques Marquette, did came this way in 1673. The Illinois tribe was later annihilated, not by aggressive white men but by the aggressive Iroquois.

The French used Buffalo Rock as a military post, a trading post and a missionary station. The Miami Indians, part of a confederation organized by the French in the late 1600s to combat the Iroquois, built a fort of their own on the rock.

The fortress-like sandstone bluff with its heavy stands of oak, cedar and some pine, later became the location for camp meetings conducted by a religious sect which used it for many years. Even later a tuberculosis sanatorium was built there. A Chicago firm, the Crane Co., purchased Buffalo Rock in 1912, and for the next 16 years used it as a summer vacation ground for employees and their families, and as the location for a sanatorium for employees who were ill. In the early 1930s, the firm moved its company recreation program to a new, larger spot, and several sand companies immediately sought to acquire it to strip it out of existence for its rich deposits of silica sand. The company president, and members of the Crane family, refused to sell the property, and instead made a gift of it to the state with the provision that it become a permanent state park to be known as "Buffalo Rock Park."

50 Years Ago Fire destroys Venice elevator

JUNE 18, 1923
A fire completely destroyed the Langenberg Brothers grain elevator, south of the McKinley Bridge. Venice, and did considerable damage to the power house of the Madison County Light and Power Co. The blaze even threatened the McKinley Bridge for awhile. The damage to the grain elevator was estimated at $25,000 and damage to the power plant caused failure of electrical power throughout the area.

25 Years Ago Diplomas to 30 ex-servicemen

JUNE 18, 1948
The commencement exercises of Community High School were held, with diplomas given to 299 seniors and 30 ex-servicemen, the largest class in history. Valedictorian was Miss Jeanne Hawks and salutatorian was Miss Victoria Kierhof. Giving talks on the atomic bomb were Seniors Milton Kirchen, Eleanor Choresvic and Paul Hazelwood. Among school officials attending were Supt. Paul A. Griep, Assistant Supt. Russell D. Johnson and High School Board President G. W. Holescher.

Foreigners have confidence in us and are 'buying American'

(Washington bureau)
Brokers say one reason the stock market has been performing poorly is that small investors are giving it the cold shoulder. Oddly enough, this sign that the average American has grown skeptical about the future of his own economy collides with evidence that investors in foreign countries are getting more bullish all the time about the United States of America.

With many stock prices at bargain levels, purchase of U.S. corporate securities by foreigners reached a record high during the first three months of this year. While some people abroad have been dumping dollars in exchange for gold, others are using them to buy shares in what gives the dollar its real strength — the productivity of the American economy.

This is not the only sign that worries about inflation, the dollar and the consequences of Watergate are being exaggerated when they are interpreted as signs that America itself is coming apart at the seams. While we may tend to think of multinational corporations mainly in terms of U.S. firms investing and expanding abroad, the fact is that foreign-owned multinational firms are also stepping up their investments here.

The Department of Commerce reports that the value of direct foreign investment in the United States rose from $7.4 billion in 1961 to $13.7 billion in 1971 and is rising at an accelerating rate. German Volkswageners may be assembled in America soon. So will France's Michelin tires. Japan's Sony has a television plant in Indianapolis. — Buffalo Rock State Park, on the banks of the Illinois River, once built a fort on this rock to combat the warlike Iroquois. Today the 43-acre park offers peace and serenity and great scenic beauty.

Lady parliamentarian in charge of Illinois House rules

By FRAN BERNARD
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — Ann Louisin, 30, is probably the first and possibly the only woman parliamentarian ever to see in a state legislature. You may have seen her on television or in new photos taken of the speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives. She stands at his right side, on the podium, giving opinions on rules and parliamentary procedures. And she offers assistance to the presiding officer in countless other ways.

Ann is a University of Chicago Law School graduate who came to Springfield in 1970 as a legal researcher for the Constitutional Convention. "I came down from Chicago for six weeks and have stayed for three years," she says, with a big smile. "That was the luckiest break of my life." Ann is usually smiling, it seems, except when she is at her post on the podium. Then it's strictly business all the way.

And no wonder. Hers is a difficult, demanding job, with long hours of constant tension and quick decision-making. Blair depends on her to advise him on matters under question, to remind him of previous rulings, and to generally keep track of the bills coming up — to let him know "what's coming down the pike."

When the speaker turns the chair over to someone else, Ann says at her speech. "I am the one constant person on there," she says.

She does emphasize one point, "I serve in a purely advisory capacity, the speaker is not in the least obliged to take my advice. I have no official function in the House."

The chair always rules." Ann was appointed by Blair in February of this year. She had worked for the Park Board Republican for two years as staff assistant and legal researcher, assisting with the reorganization of the House

San Diego, and another Japanese firm is making teriyaki sauce in Wisconsin. Many of our factories turning out products with familiar American trade-names are now owned by foreign-based conglomerates.

U.S. investment is obviously presenting itself as an attractive way for foreign companies to plow dollars back into the country where they are selling their goods. The favorable effect on the international balance of payments is obvious. Further, the fact that foreign companies are building plants and hiring workers in America is one more reason to doubt the argument that the activities of multinational corporations should be curtailed because they "export" jobs.

Many foreign countries have been on the receiving end of American investment for a long time, and some have tried to restrict it in the name of nationalism; as foreign ownership becomes more visible on the American scene, fears are sure to arise that too much of it could subject our economy to unwholesome "foreign influence."

We should be mature enough to realize that advances in communications and transportation are welding the world's once-isolated markets into a whole. New business patterns are emerging and are undoubtedly here to stay. The know-how and productivity of the American people have made this country prosperous and will keep it so — as long as we have as much confidence in America as those foreign investors who are now buying a piece of the action.

Back and forth between the two schools all day every day since certain facilities will not be duplicated and many students will participate in classes at both campuses. For example, existing vocational shops will remain at South, while the new shop and data processing instructional center will be located at North. Facilities and a single, unified school system rather than a divided community, there are plans to give each student body its own identity and "esprit de corps," as the Martineau says.

Because GCHS/South traditions are already known, and because North was the topic of last week's talk, the new school will be explored here to a degree.

It already exists in a number of ways, although the building itself is far from complete. Walmesley will adopt it as the main gym to ease transfer of 1,000-pound wrestling mats for meets to be attended by the public. There are two floors in the building for shower and dressing rooms.

The gym or library will be the location of student assemblies, held for the individual freshman, sophomore, junior and senior groups.

Even more important than physical surroundings will be what happens to help students grow in knowledge and citizenship. A lot will be happening, Walmesley predicts, speaking of the "top talent" that has been assembled to operate GCHS/North.

The school will be operated openly, with all policies explained and discussed with instructors, students, parents and taxpayers.

There will be freedom where it is exercised responsibly, and the choice is in situations where it is abused. Freedom will include the curriculum, cooperation with Dumont and others in the school district, the 8th-12th grade curriculum, curriculum will be revamped. More options will be offered on the menu of courses that students must meet specific requirements in English and other subject categories.

A former majoring in a vocational field, for instance, will be able to select a technical writing course rather than French literature in fulfilling his language obligations. Walmesley, no stranger to Granite City educational challenges, is frankly excited by what he is convinced will be an outstanding high school.

A former assistant GCHS principal, he also has been principal of Frather High School in St. Louis as well as serving as a teacher and counselor. Granite Cityans also seem certain to be excited by the new and imaginative program.

There is a negative side, too. "You just can't get there from here," at least at present.

Weather has slowed progress on Highway 203 (Nameoki Road), which is to be widened from divided four-lane highway.

It's intersection with Maryville road is to be raised considerably, with Maryville traffic routed farther to the east as it nears the intersection.

As a result of the highway delay, access and parking for GCHS/North will be troublesome for the initial period of the school's existence. A solution for this situation is one of the chief topics currently occupying Supt. B. J. Dwyer and other administrators of School District Nine.

North steeling itself for opening

Will separation of Granite City High School into South and North divide the district in a miniature civil war?

Not if James Dumont and Gilbert Walmesley can help it. The former is principal of GCHS, Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road, which will be open in September as GCHS/South. The latter is principal of the new GCHS/North scheduled to open this fall at Maryville and Morrison Roads.

Walmesley outlined some of the philosophy in a talk at last week's Granite City Rotary luncheon.

Spirited Steeler-versus-Warrior athletic rivalry is contemplated. And there will be efforts within each school to make it the best anywhere—in academic matters and other respects.

But there will be many programs to unify the two student bodies, including a number of having members from both schools — administrators, faculty members and students. The gym of the current three-year high school program, both high schools will also serve ninth graders.

Buses will be traveling back and forth between the two schools all day every day since certain facilities will not be duplicated and many students will participate in classes at both campuses.

For example, existing vocational shops will remain at South, while the new shop and data processing instructional center will be located at North. Facilities and a single, unified school system rather than a divided community, there are plans to give each student body its own identity and "esprit de corps," as the Martineau says.

Weather has slowed progress on Highway 203 (Nameoki Road), which is to be widened from divided four-lane highway.

It's intersection with Maryville road is to be raised considerably, with Maryville traffic routed farther to the east as it nears the intersection.

As a result of the highway delay, access and parking for GCHS/North will be troublesome for the initial period of the school's existence. A solution for this situation is one of the chief topics currently occupying Supt. B. J. Dwyer and other administrators of School District Nine.

band and vocal music, and chemistry and physics laboratories.

Another will be the scene of basic courses like English and mathematics, plus food and clothing classrooms. A third section will provide the library and offices.

A fourth area will include the gymnasium and the fifth will house a large cafeteria, temporarily reduced in size by creation of six classrooms.

At first housing only 1,800 students compared to the more than 3,000 at GCHS/South, the new school is designed to be expanded at some point in the future.

Far from "second rate," the gymnasium is viewed by Walmesley as an outstanding facility. While it will seat only 800, this was a deliberate decision by the school district to not duplicate the Memorial Gymnasium.

Both the South and North basketball teams will utilize the South gym for varsity. The gymnasium will be used for both football teams will play their varsity games at the South stadium on Felling Road.

But North's gymnasium will offer more to its 1,800 enrollment than the South's 3,200 student body had at its disposal for physical education at any time in GCHS history up to the gymnasium expansion of three years ago.

The North gym includes a mini area which can be divided in the middle for separate and private full-size basketball courts for boys and girls.

There is a large wrestling room, located on the same floor as the mini gym to ease transfer of 1,000-pound wrestling mats for meets to be attended by the public. There are two floors in the building for shower and dressing rooms.

The gym or library will be the location of student assemblies, held for the individual freshman, sophomore, junior and senior groups.

Even more important than physical surroundings will be what happens to help students grow in knowledge and citizenship. A lot will be happening, Walmesley predicts, speaking of the "top talent" that has been assembled to operate GCHS/North.

The school will be operated openly, with all policies explained and discussed with instructors, students, parents and taxpayers.

There will be freedom where it is exercised responsibly, and the choice is in situations where it is abused. Freedom will include the curriculum, cooperation with Dumont and others in the school district, the 8th-12th grade curriculum, curriculum will be revamped. More options will be offered on the menu of courses that students must meet specific requirements in English and other subject categories.

A former majoring in a vocational field, for instance, will be able to select a technical writing course rather than French literature in fulfilling his language obligations.

Walmesley, no stranger to Granite City educational challenges, is frankly excited by what he is convinced will be an outstanding high school.

A former assistant GCHS principal, he also has been principal of Frather High School in St. Louis as well as serving as a teacher and counselor. Granite Cityans also seem certain to be excited by the new and imaginative program.

There is a negative side, too. "You just can't get there from here," at least at present.

Weather has slowed progress on Highway 203 (Nameoki Road), which is to be widened from divided four-lane highway.

It's intersection with Maryville road is to be raised considerably, with Maryville traffic routed farther to the east as it nears the intersection.

A sheriff's place is in the home

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

HENNEPIN, Ill. — In little Putnam County, the general feeling is that the sheriff's place is in the home — more specifically, in the kitchen and the laundry.

Putnam County, with a population of about 6,000, has the only woman sheriff in Illinois and though she carries a pistol in her purse and once wrote a speeding ticket, she spends more of her duty time doing the cooking and laundry for the jail located in the county seat at Hennepin.

Not that Putnam County is a hoodlum's heavenly hide-away, Sheriff Martha Calbow's husband Warren functions in theory as her deputy and in practice as sheriff when one is needed.

Warren Calbow was sheriff in name as well as in fact until 1970, when under Illinois law he was prohibited from succeeding himself. Martha Calbow at that time served as deputy as well as her husband's administrator of civil administration.

With Sheriff Warren Calbow's term running out, the couple decided to "keep the position in the family," so Martha ran for sheriff. She racked up a victory margin over her opponent four times as big as the edge by which her husband had won four years earlier.

She then "hired" her husband as her nonsalary full-time deputy (after all, he had the experience and his price was right), and she went back to the desk, the stove and the washer. The Putnam County sheriff receives $11,500 yearly.

Sheriff Martha Calbow also recruited four male part-time deputies and one female part-time deputy. The latter "doesn't do much," she says, being called to work chiefly when a woman prisoner is being held, and the law requires that a woman officer be on hand.

Doing the bookwork, the cooking and the laundry for all the prisoners in Putnam County isn't exactly a back-breaking job; there weren't any prisoners in the jail at all in April, and none in the jail all 15 days of May.

From time to time the sheriff does ride around the rounds with her deputy-husband but she says she never patrols without him.

Since the Putnam County jail is connected to the sheriff's residence, the sheriff—male or female—can hold office without really ever leaving home. That leaves the sheriff more time to look after her three sons, Gerald, 21; William, 20, and Duane, 19. The last two have birthdays on two successive days, so the sheriff covers her badge with an apron and bakes birthday cakes two days in a row.

Whether or not she's brought "that much-needed woman's touch" to the office, as the county state's attorney says, she must be doing something right. "In January, we had one prisoner who had to serve 30 days, which is a lot longer than most of our prisoners. When he got out, he came back a couple of times to see me," she says. How many sheriffs can say that?

Life on the river

By CONLEY MILLIGAN
Copley News Service

JOLIET — You wouldn't, perhaps, expect a Mississippi River barge line captain to be living in DuPage County, but such is the case with James Jones.

Jones, who maintains his family and residence in West Chicago, is captain of the Daniel Webster, owned by Mechling Barge Lines of Joliet.

The Daniel Webster is a workhorse boat that plys the Illinois and Mississippi rivers between St. Louis and New Orleans.

The Daniel Webster is a motor vessel, 194 feet in length from stem to stern. She has a 35-foot beam and nine-foot draft.

A routine assignment for her is to push 20 or more loaded barges up the Mississippi from New Orleans to St. Louis, where another cluster will be snaked together for the voyage downstream.

The barges average 195 feet in length by 35 feet in width with an eight to nine-foot draft. They carry a variety of cargo including lumber, steel, coal, sugar, paper, chemicals and other bulk material.

The crew of the Daniel Webster consists of 12 people, two of them women, commanded by Captain Jones. In addition to Jones the boat carries a pilot, chief engineer, assistant engineer, oiler, mate, watchman, a maid, a cook and four deckhands. The maid and the cook are women.

Captain Jones came home to West Chicago April 10 after having been aboard the Daniel Webster since March 11. His job calls for 30 days on the river, then 30 days at home throughout the year.

The Mississippi River recently was at the highest flood stage it has been in many years. "It is wilder than I have ever before seen it and am in my 25th year as a river boat man," said Jones.

"The water was so high under the bridges in St. Louis harbor and at Vicksburg that we avoided shoving our barges through during the darkness of night," said Jones. "The water was turbulent and running at an eight to nine mile an hour current under the bridges," he said.

Literally millions of acres of land along the Mississippi between St. Louis and New Orleans are flooded, causing a tremendous loss in crops and property damage.

"Many of the landmarks along the river that we had been accustomed to seeing were either inundated or washed away. Tree trunks, parts of houses and other bot-

SPRINGFIELD — We broke out into the unfiltered sunlight and, compared to the relative darkness of the woods, the bright light hurt the eyes.

We turned north, Dick leading the way, walking in the sandy area between a fence row and last year's harvested corn. That farmer, too, had been bitten by the wet fall and wet spring. Never had a chance to get his fall plowing done.

"You know, Monday is a bad day to go looking for these things."

"Hal I suppose you're going to tell me Mother Nature takes Mondays off?"

"Nope. S' true. Everybody's out huntin' weekends. Generally got it picked clean by Monday."

Before we emerged from the woods, Dick Netzel had had some success in the hunt. Despite it being a Monday and despite the hunt taking place in one of the more "combed" areas around Springfield — Carpenter Park.

Mushrooms here in Central Illinois are highly sought and highly prized. I learned that from going to school in this neck of the woods. Heck, transplanted northerners that I am, until then I thought mushrooms were poisonous unless they were bought in a can and served on steak — until I arrived "downstate."

And, truthfully, taking a whole day just to go out looking for mushrooms seemed slightly ridiculous. I mean, didn't anyone value their time?

Jim Hayward, with the Sangamon County Extension Service, suggested going along with Netzel on a mushroom hunt. That is, if I wanted to find anything because, "he's about the best there is."

Randy Netzel agreed. "He is pretty good." That's quite a compliment for a son to give his father, considering today's imagined standards. Randy went along for the hunt. The two work together as horticulturalists for the Springfield Park District.

"Looks like a pretty good spot," Dick said, but what's different about it that makes it a likely location for mushrooms?

But Dick's "pretty good spot" did look a little different. It looked just a little bit greener than the rest of the woods. There was still undergrowth but not quite as much of it as seemed to prevail elsewhere. And yet, the area wasn't quite so green as some of the more grassy areas of the woods.

Another thing that made it different was the dead elm tree. It was a fairly good-sized elm, and by Dick's guess it had been dead about two or three years. That's what you look for, he said.

They say a black ash is another tree to look for but we didn't see any of those. They also said orchards are a good place to look, but only ones that haven't been tended for a while and especially haven't been sprayed with insecticides.

When to begin looking for these things is just about as indefinite. For one thing, there isn't too much time — about three weeks is all — before they just dry up and disappear. But Netzel says a person can begin looking for the mushrooms when the peach tree stops blooming and the pear tree begins. (Nothing's definite because, "This year the pears started blooming before the peaches.")

Randy added. When the apples are in full bloom the mushrooms are at their peak. Wild violets in the woods are apparently in bloom while the mushrooms are growing and ripening.

Bicyclists to benefit with adoption of bill

"Bicycle buffs in Illinois are going to benefit to the tune of $3,704,655 if Senate Bill 1167 clears the House," according to Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene.

Sponsor of the bill which has passed the Senate, Vadalabene indicated that he had high hopes that this support for bicyclists and pedestrians would soon be forthcoming.

"The size of the Senate vote, 41-2, is most encouraging," Vadalabene observed. "It shows that there is a wide scope of interest in providing safety and convenience to vehicles that don't crowd the lanes and burn up the road."

"It's impossible to give a definite estimate of all the benefits that are coming to our citizens, just on the level of exercising, you have a set of pay-offs that prove the money is being well-spent."

"The passage of this bill is a victory for concerned citizens who made their voices heard. There weren't any high pressure lobbyists to push for their interests. But the message, by letters and word of mouth, certainly got through. This is a great day for health and safety in this state."

He was a member of St. John United Church of Christ and was a past president of the church council. A member of the Madison County Farm Bureau, he also belonged to the senior citizens clubs in Collinsville and Granite City.

Thieves get guns at GC residence

Six guns, valued at $695, $20 cash and a bedspread were stolen from the home of James Powell, 2300 Elm St., by burglars who apparently carried the weapons from the scene in a car reported at 2:45 p.m. Friday.

Missing items include two 12-gauge shotguns, valued at $150 each, one 20-gauge, $250, two 12-gauge single shot and pump guns, worth $20 and $75, and a .22 caliber bolt action weapon, valued at $30.

A screen was removed from a rear bedroom window to gain entry into the house, police said.
